AGE GROUPS & PLAYER PLACEMENTS EXPLAINED

Steamboat Soccer Club instituted a change in age group registration, beginning fall of 2016, that uses birth year for age group placement. This change was a mandate passed down by US Youth Soccer with the aim to support player development. Using birth year registration ensures that players are training and playing in the proper age group, each with their own developmental needs.

SSC's primary focus is to see each and every player enjoy, learn, grow, and pursue excellence within the game and this starts with placing players in the correct environment and exposing them to the correct competition and focusing on developing the player.

For player placement within each age group, SSC staff believes it is important to adhere to a year-long evaluation process allowing for more accurate and complete assessment of each player. Staff evaluates players throughout an entire season in games and practices. Additionally, one-day player placement sessions for each age allow for one added day when staff, Age Group Directors, and Team Coaches are able to assess all players, in a given age group, together before announcing player pools, and/or teams for each age group. Sometimes staff may need to move a player to suit their development. In these cases, Steamboat Soccer Club will invite players to train or play with another team.

AGE GROUP DIRECTORS

Age Group Directors (AGD) were added to the coaching staff in 2018. AGDs oversee specific phases of the player development plan, attend monthly meetings and report back developments and needs for their age groups, mentor head and assistant coaches within their age groups, and coach multiple teams across specific age groups. The addition of AGDs as well as the use of player pools within age groups allows better facilitation of player movement among teams and age groups as appropriate for individuals and teams, and also ensures all teams within a given age group have access to the same level of coaching, planning, communication. A list of age group directors can be found at www.steamboat-soccer.com.

COACHES TRAINING

Each year, coaching staff completes a required number of educational classes on soccer focused training, communicating with players and parents, building team culture, concussion training, and child safety.
